

#4 Grandpa's and Grandma's telephone was on a party line. Many evenings as we sat around the radio or played cards, the phone would ring and they would know who was getting called by the number of rings that were produced by the phone, two rings was so and so, three rings was someone else. I was amazed that a ringing phone did not have to be answered or that it was not even for you.

#5. Snap Shots Memories:

- a. Milking cows by hand and having Uncle Art, Uncle Vincent, squiring us with milk while milking the cows.
- b. Getting water from a well and drinking it from a dipper attached to the pump and filling a bucket with water for the house.
- c. Drinking pop that was kept cool in the animal water tank.
- d. Going to an outdoor toilet, in all kinds of weather. At night a "honey pot" was available.
